PRIMARIES...

The anticipated winners in the New Hampshire primaries carried the day, Sen. Edmund Muskie getting 48 percent in the Democratic Primary, President Nixon getting 70 percent in the Republican.

Sen. George McGovern put a question mark over Sen. Muskie's win by getting 37 percent of the vote in the Democratic Primary, suggesting he (1) campaigned very hard, which he did, or that (2) Muskie is not quite as strong as he might be in his home state, which he wasn't because he did not campaign as much as McGovern and suffered a few percent loss in a local flap.

The President did not campaign at all in New Hampshire while second runner Rep. Paul McCloskey, of California, received 19 percent of the Republican vote, Rep. John Asbrook received about 10 percent. Of course, President Nixon took all the major headlines of recent weeks with the historic trip to China.

McGovern outdistanced L.A. Mayor Sam Yorty who had 8 percent of the vote; Rep. Wilbur Mills, of Arkansas, who got 5 percent write-in votes; Sen. Vance Hartke, of Indiana, 4 percent, and Sen. Edward Kennedy with 1 percent write-in.

The South Dakota senator showed strength because he spent much time and money working the small state of New Hampshire. Sen. Muskie apparently did not. It would establish McGovern as a stronger candidate than anticipated.

Both men are senators of small states, either in population or geography. McGovern must have been at home in New Hampshire. But this is only one primary, enlarged beyond its proportion because of major coverage by the media.

To follow are Florida, California, Indiana, Wisconsin primaries, among others, which bring the new headlines and new conjecture.

It is all very tiring and wasteful. One national primary would bring the major party candidates in focus in a matter of weeks, instead of months.

We Americans are suckers for a circus of colorful show and that is a great part of the political process every presidential year. A lot of this is fun. But a lot of primaries aren't making as much sense with national coverage these days.

It would be easy for a national primary date to be accepted by the various states so that a national campaign by primary candidates could give the whole country a look at its partisan candidates and vote on them, by party.

Then the conventions, or some more workable system, produce the party candidates and another national campaign would develop issues between parties until the November general election.

An obvious improvement would also be to put primaries a lot closer to convention time. People will forget New Hampshire, if it is supposed to mean anything, in another month or two. And though the New Hampshire vote is infinitesimal, it deserves more than a nation-wide splash and then oblivion.

President Nixon must be pleased with the outcome, because Muskie is considered the front runner for the Democratic nomination. McGovern is still basically a one-issue candidate, a peace proponent in the past five years. And that issue is almost neutralized.

McGovern must have hurt Muskie in Muskie's own state. But the way the primary system goes, it is a long time until the conventions.

Development Clinic Draws Area Leaders

Civic and business leaders from the 27th legislative district met in Cameron Tuesday for an economic development clinic hosted by State Rep. Dan Kubiak and E. H. Sheffield, Texas Industrial Commission.

Roles in community economic development were outlined by Eugene Black, of the Small Business Administration; Marvin Hagemeier of the Economic Development Administration; Leo Garrett, Housing and Urban Development, and L. D. Smith, Farmer's Home Administration.

Carson Hoge, of the Brazos River Authority, spoke on water and sewage quality and quantities while Roy Huffman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department described recreational facilities financing.

Dollars in tourism was presented by Richard Pierce, Texas travel and information division of the Texas Highway Department. The role of the Department of Community Affairs in community development was explained by Fritz Lanham, executive director, Texas Department of Community Affairs.

Sheffield explained using the services of the Texas Industrial Commission.

Community discussion sessions were held at the end of the program and speakers met with representatives of various communities to discuss their individual problems.

The clinic was held in the Cameron Community Center.

THE WALLS CAME TUMBLING DOWN - Charles Baron directs helpers who tied cables onto the old Milan Theatre front wall Monday to pull it down onto the abandoned lot (photo at left) but when the cable tightened the crumbling wall fell streed side, breaking an electrical cable in a flash of sparks. When the dust cleared this bent and broken light post (right) showed the impact of the falling bricks. Workers said the fire that had gutted the building in 1961 had dried mortar holding the bricks. Tornado winds of last spring had collapsed the back wall.

Chamber To Maintain Hunter Leasing List

The Cameron Chamber of Commerce is beginning a new service to maintain listings of acreage available in the county and nearby areas to be used as hunting leases.

Landowners wishing to lease acreage for hunting should contact the Chamber of Commerce office in Cameron and supply the following information: amount of acreage available, game present on lease, whether lease is for day or season, price and location with general directions.

A list will be compiled offering lease information and other general data on the area. It will be used to answer the many requests received during the year through the Chamber of Commerce office.

"Milam County has unlimited potential to develop into a more attractive area for out of county hunters with an abundance of quail, dove, and other small game as well as a few deer," a Chamber spokesman said.

Lions District Governor

To Speak At Buckholts

Lions International District Governor David Kahlich of Weimer will be guest speaker for Buckholts Lions Club meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday (tonight) at the Swanky Franky Cafe in Buckholts.

The Buckholts Lions Club recently raised $170 for the Buckholts Volunteer Fire Dept. with a community light bulb sale.

The spokesman said that according to a study done in a county comparable to Milam, it was discovered that in addition to income derived by landowners, for each deer killed an approximate average of $300 was spent in the area.

Information on the new service may be obtained by calling or visiting the Chamber of Commerce in Cameron.

Court Revokes Teal Probation

In District Court of Milam County on Friday, March 3, a hearing was conducted by the Court on the County Attorney's petition to revoke the probated sentence of Kenneth Teal.

Teal was given a three-year probated sentence on October 29, 1971 when he was found guilty of the offense of possession of marijuana.

At the hearing Friday, it was shown to the satisfaction of the Court that Teal had violated a condition of his probation. At the conclusion of the hearing, Judge W. C. Wallace remanded Teal to the custody of Sheriff Carl Black for transportation to the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville to serve a three-year sentence.

Peking Visit Awakens 'Sleeping Giant'

By James Pringle
Reuter Correspondent

PEKING
President Nixon's journey to Peking has awakened the world's sleeping giant. For the first time in its history China appears ready to play an openly international role.

The president's own description of his momentous visit -- that it was "The week that changed the world" -- is being regarded by diplomats in the Chinese capital as more than just catchy rhetoric.

"Things can never be quite the same after this," commented one envoy.

"From the beginning of recorded history, China was the middle kingdom which was sometimes smiling, sometimes not -- but never playing a role in the affairs of the world beyond its borders.

"But now China, like the United States, realizes the world balance of power is changing, particularly in the Pacific, and this time it will be playing a part."

The Nixon visit, Feb. 21 - 28, ended 22 years of U. S. foreign policy aimed at isolating the Peoples Republic of China.

Now, as a second diplomat in Peking commented: "The dynamic must move towards rapprochement."

The crux of the emerging relationship hinges on prior American commitments -- in particular its 1954 defense treaty -- with the Nationalist regime on Taiwan.

The United States is starting a dialogue with China after more than two decades of mutual hostility and suspicion. But envoys here believe there can be no question or diplomatic relations until American backing for nationalist Chinese leader Chiang Kai - Shek is ended.

One of them said: "The Americans are moving slowly on the question of Taiwan, as they must do."

"But if they can solve the Taiwan problem during a second term of office for President Nixon, it is quite likely that diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking will be established."

The diplomats are as aware as anyone that great powers cannot break their treaty commitments and retain credibility with their other allies.

But they believe that China is in favor of a slow evolution in world affairs, and apparently has no real desire to humiliate the United States over the stumbling - block of Taiwan.

A 1,700 - word joint communique issued Feb. 27 promised an eventual withdrawal of U. S. forces from Taiwan as part of the price of rapprochement with China.

This is seen here as a U. S. acknowledgment that Taiwan is part of the whole China problem and that it is now up to the Chinese to resolve it themselves.

There is some speculation as to whether a solution to Taiwan might eventually be induced between Peking and the Nationalist Chinese, and observers here recall a statement made by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai before the National Peoples Congress in July 1955.

He said: "Provided the United States does not interfere with China's internal problems, the possibility ty of the peaceful liberation of Taiwan will continue to increase.

"If possible, the Chinese government is willing to enter into negotiations with the responsible local authorities on Taiwan to map out concrete steps for Taiwan's peaceful liberation."

The same statement made clear Peking's opposition to the so - called "Two - Chinas" policy -- which the United States itself has now apparently abandoned.

At a state banquet during Nixon's visit here, it was noted that several former Kuomintang (Nationalist Party) military chiefs were present.

Diplomats here see this as Peking's way of reassuring the Nationalists that there could be a role for them in China after Taiwan again returns to the fold.

Candidates Draw For Ballot Places

Council candidates drew for places on the April 1 city ballot at a regular council meeting Tuesday evening.

For Place 1, Lester Turner was first and Hubert Knight second. For Place 2, Lincoln Mondrik drew first place and James Kahler second.

Gene Blake, Cameron businessman, is the only candidate to file for mayor. Incumbent Mayor E. A. Perrin is not seeking re-election.

In other business, the council voted to hire a man to work at the Cameron Airpark, repairing planes and in general maintaining the park. After a year, the city will lease the park to the man instead of paying him a salary.

Several requests for street paving were heard. Jack Woods appeared and requested paving for N. Harding and Grady Allen for the paving of E. 9th.

The council and Mayor E. A. Perrin explained how the city handles requests for paving.

Council voted to install street lights on N. Jefferson and at the Cameron Courts.

A. W. McCullin gave a progress report on urban renewal, noting that the school tax office has moved to its temporary location in the urban renewal office. He said just about all the relocations have been accomplished.

R. J. Woodum asked the council to lease the grounds northwest of the Library for parking cars and mobile homes. The city will lease the grounds on certain conditions.

The council also approved installing an automatic switch for the fire alarm at City Hall.

Funds Approved For Widening Gause Highway

The Texas Highway Commission approved a $240 million, two-year program for the development of almost 2,000 miles of Texas highways on Wednesday, March 1.

This program includes the following project in Milam County:

US 79 from Gause to the Brazos River, a distance of about 5.8 miles. This work is for the reconstruction of US 79. The project involves the construction of a new overpass of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. A four-lane curbed section will be constructed through the town of Gause and the remainder of the project will be constructed to two-lane standards with surfaced shoulders.

This project was authorized under a previous program and the funds provided in this program are additional funds needed to finance the proposed construction.

District Engineer Joe G. Hanover of the Texas Highway Dept., Bryan, said that the funds provided by this program are $411,300, which are in addition to the funds authorized under previous programs for work in Milam County.

SPRING comes to a wild plum tree tho the official date is some weeks away. The mild late February and early March weather is bringing blooms to some fruit trees and to redbud trees around town.

Re: Congestion, Emptiness...

One of Texas' biggest rural water systems got a $310,000 boost for expansion to more customers the other day.

Word by telegram and letter acknowledged approval by FHA to Milam Water Supply Corp. They came from Sen. John Tower and Cong. W. R. Poage.

We see in the daily press concern over such expenditure becoming a political "boondoggle" since it is an election year from White House to precinct.

We imagine redevelopment of the rural areas, and creation of new cities, like "Texas New Town" northwest of San Antonio, are the only real solution to population problems.

We can't just walk away from the overcongested cities of North and Northeast. But no amount of money will resolve the problems of New York, particularly, the other smaller cities caught in the social - economic bind of dwindling tax base, increasing minority population and miles of aging neighborhoods.

One solution is stabilization of and attraction for population to the less populous or non - populous areas of the country.

A better water system in a rural area or a new city in South Texas are part of the solution. Only in an election year would dispersal of population and broader hold on non-metro residents be considered merely political.

If anyone likes the alternatives, read Stewart Alsop in NEWSWEEK of recent issues about the decay of boroughs of New York. Not all cities are in central city catastrophe, but more will be if they don't see the relationship of pointless congestion and emptiness in more than 90 percent of the American landscape.

Something Right...

Something like seven Milam County 4-H and FFA boys won prizes in calf scrambles of judging at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo last week.

Six of 24 contestants from all the counties qualified for junior livestock or dairy competition, not all of the 254 Texas counties, but most of them.

In other words, six of 24 places went to Milam County youths in two events, not counting one winner in judging and a Robertson County youth's win in one of the scrambles.

If statistics are any interest six of 24 top winners is about 25 percent. Milam County must be doing something right in the youth cattle and dairy business.

Cong. Poage Opens Campaign Office

WACO

Central Texas Cong. W. R. Poage, opening his reelection campaign headquarters here, told a Texas Independence Day crowd of well wishers the only "real issue at stake is who can do the best job" in Washington for the people of the 11th District.

Campaign literature on display at Poage's campaign headquarters noted that Poage as Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture of the U. S. House is "in a position of power and influence in Washington and can get things done that no freshman legislator could achieve."

Grover Speaks Out

On Welfare Reform

Sen. Henry C. (Hank) Grover told a Houston audience Friday that Ben Barnes "talks one game and plays another" on welfare reform.

"Barnes is going around calling for a welfare reform, but his record in the Senate proves that he doesn't mean it," Grover told the Houston Jaycees monthly luncheon at Col. Sanders Inn. "He talks conservative and acts liberal."

Sen. Grover continued: "When Barnes talks about welfare reform, he either means turning the problem over to the Federal Government or spending more state money. Look at his record."

"We'll never reform the welfare mess as long as Barnes and the rest of the Democratic candidates talk one game and play another. Smith and Briscoe aren't challenging Barnes on the issues because all of them owe allegiance to the liberal faction which won't let them make meaningful reforms. They are deliberately spending us into a state income tax," Grover said.

Dateline Austin...

Party Heads To Meet For Major Decisions, Routine

By Bill Boykin

Leaders of both Democratic and Republican state parties will meet March 13 for major decisions as well as routine housekeeping duties.

Texas law requires executive committees of political parties on that date to certify statewide candidates, set ratios for state convention delegate selection, fix hours and sites for June 13 and September 19 state conventions and select a place to canvass May 6 primary returns.

National GOP Committeeman Peter O'Donnell Jr. gave Republicans something else to think about when he unexpectedly submitted his resignation, the vacancy to be filled at the statutory R.E.C. meeting in Austin.

State Rep. Fred Agnich of Dallas is the overwhelming choice to succeed O'Donnell as committeeman, and may get the job unopposed.

Time is also getting close for Republicans to adopt a formal set of written rules for operation of party conventions and regular operations, although that is considered no great problem for the GOP.

Rules writing is a problem of major proportions for Democrats. April 6 is the deadline under new statelaw for the parties to submit their rules drafts to the secretary of state.

Democrats are expected to make a choice at the March 13 meeting between a set of reform rules drawn under direction of William R. Anderson Jr. of Corpus Christi and a watered-down draft which opponents claim perpetuates the winner-take-all system of convention operations.

Supporters of the Anderson rules claim a majority of the State Democratic Executive Committee will adopt them in preference to the alternative which has SDEC rules sub-committee approval.

Rumors persist that SDEC Chairman Roy Orr of DeSoto may resign his post at the Austin meeting. Gov. Preston Smith is backing Anderson to succeed him. Orr early this year became a Dallas County commissioner, and questions have been raised about his holding both positions.

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Supreme Court has agreed to decide whether party primary election costs can be paid from state funds without special legislative authorization.

The High Court heard arguments in the historic case Monday (March 6). Secretary of State Bob Bullock claims he has power to make rules for conduct and financing of the May and June primaries. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin maintains only the legislature can provide the money -- in this case via special session. Martin tried unsuccessfully to prevent Bullock from bringing the mandamus action against Comptroller Robert S. Calvert to force payment of two minor preliminary election bills.

Court of Criminal Appeals has held that probation cannot be revoked for association with disreputable persons unless it can be shown the probationer knew of the reputations of his friends.

MUSTANG CONTROVERSY

Parks and Wildlife Commissioners postponed for 60 days a showdown on a proposed purchase of 3,965 acres on Mustang Island for a park development after earlier voting to forget the whole thing.

Commissioners voted two - to - one to kill the $4.2 million island purchase with three new members abstaining. They agreed to hold off on a firm decision, however, following legal advice that a majority -- at least four of six members -- had to vote to make action binding.

Former Commission Chairman Pearce Johnson blocked the Mustang purchase early last year with a federal court suit. A higher court reversed the lower court decision, throwing the decision back to the Commission.

SALES TAX LOSS

A Senate committee's staff report that at least $12 million a year is being lost by the state in uncollected sales taxes due to alleged faulty administration by the state comptroller's office is figuring in three campaigns.

Sen. Joe Christle of El Paso, chairman of the senate committee, is talking about it in his race for lieutenant governor. Randy Pendleton of Andrews, a candidate for comptroller, blames the loss on Comptroller Robert S. Calvert and Attorney General candidate John Hill of Houston claims Attorney General Martin should be more diligent in filing tax collection suits.

AG OPINIONS

A public school district can permit neighboring parochial school students to participate in its music (band) program, Attorney General Martin held.

In a flood of other recent opinions, Martin concluded: "Parks and Wildlife Department is not authorized to appoint any game wardens, salaried or non - salaried, other than those permitted under the current state appropriations act. PWD further has no appropriation to buy a white-winged dove habitat.

* Wichita Falls city officials can collect Wichita Falls Independent School District delinquent taxes at a penalty rate of 10 per cent.

* The state treasurer may accept mortgage-backed serial notes as collateral for state deposits if payment is unconditionally guaranteed.

* Where three districts vote on school consolidation and the proposition fails in the third, but the first two subsequently consolidate, another election cannot be held for at least a year on consolidating the third district with the others.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

A lot of columnists who didn't get to make the trip to China have been complaining that nobody has found out what actually took place over there, if anything, but they were looking for the big things when they should have been looking for the little things.

For example, on his return, Walter Cronkite, in summing up some of his impressions which didn't include what went on at the summit talks since he couldn't find out any more than you and me what went on there, said he couldn't get over how clean the streets of Peking were, and contrasted them with the streets of New York and other big cities where I understand it's considered unsanitary for children to play hopscotch.

He pointed out also how 200,000 Chinese turned out one day to shovel the snow off Peking's streets.

Well, I'll tell you. If 200,000 New Yorkers tackled their streets some morning it'd make a difference too.

But what I wanted to know, and what the television reporters never thought to ask, is, what would those 200,000 able-bodied Chinese have been doing if they weren't shoveling snow? Don't they have regular jobs?

Also, the reporters and the other visitors too couldn't get over the immensity of the ancient Chinese Wall, the 20-foot-high, 40-foot-thick monstrosity running for thousands of miles over mountains and through valleys and built over 2,000 years ago by 300,000 slaves.

If you'll give me 300,000 slaves who'll work for a bowl of rice a day, and 50,000 other slaves who're growing and delivering that rice at the same rate of pay, no telling what I could build... maybe a paved highway to every house in the country and a rock fence around every farm and ranch, provided somebody would furnish the wheelbarrows and the whips.

But that was ancient China. How about modern China? I don't know a thing about it, same as the reporters who've been there, but there must be some people over there who, looking out the window from beneath their warm cover on a winter morning, sure hate to see it snowing.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Weed Control Meeting Set

By Bill McCutchen

It will soon be time to control weeds in newly planted and established pastures. This practice deserves a lot of attention as weeds are one of the main detriments in pasture establishment and pasture improvement.

With the prime weed control period just around the corner a pasture weed control meeting has been set for Tuesday night March 14th at 7:30 p.m. in the First National Bank meeting room in Cameron.

Rupert Plamer, Extension Weed Control Specialist, will discuss weed control chemicals, time and methods of application. Weed control is important to establishing seedling grasses and in coastal bermuda establishment, as well as being a prime management tool on native pastures.

Clyde B. Starnes, Jr., with the Texas Department of Agriculture will also be on the program. Starnes will discuss herbicide law and regulations pertinent to the use of hormone type herbicides in Milam County.

Chemical misuse and complaints are becoming more common every year and landowners are encouraged to attend this meeting and bring themselves up to date on proper herbicide usage.

CARL A. BELL

Bell To Run For Ag Commissioner

Carl A. Bell has recently announced his candidacy for State Commissioner of Agriculture in the May 6 Democratic primary.

He was born and reared on a farm near Henrietta, Texas and attended Ft. Lewis A&M College in Colorado.

Bell says that "most honest and taxpaying citizens know for sure that now is the time for a change in some of our public officials entrenched with the establishment in Austin. Most of our elected officials are forgetting that they are in office to represent the people, not their selfish prosperity."

Bell said he is running for the office of Commissioner of Agriculture to "work with the farmers and ranchers of Texas not against them."

TREE PLANTING TIME

Late winter and early spring are good times to set out new trees. Varieties should be planted that are adapted to the area and that will meet specific needs, notes Dr. Bill Welch, Extension landscape horticulturist. Trees help purify the air and release oxygen, moderate the climate, provide food and shelter for birds and animals, and boost the value and sales appeal of homes.

Narrow-Row Cotton Planted

COLLEGE STATION

The production of narrow-row cotton has become a reality in Texas.

More than 18,000 acres were planted to cotton in narrow rows in 1972, pointed out Dr. Robert Metzger of Lubbock, area agronomist (cotton) with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Most of this acreage was on the High Plains although about 3,000 acres were planted in the Rio Grande Valley. He contended that 1971 acreage could reach as high as 50,000 acres with the use of more than 100 narrow-row harvesters.

Metzger discussed the narrow-row cotton situation in Texas at the recent Western Cotton Production Conference in Bakersfield, California.

"Even though 1971 was a poor production year, yields from cotton planted in narrow rows ranged from 5 to 30 percent more than that planted in conventional rows. Production costs were similar or lower and this is the real advantage for the narrow-row method of production," said Metzger.

What row patterns are producers using in this high plant population method of production? These tend to vary with the soil type and the irrigation system, according to the agronomist.

"Double-row on a 40-inch bed is the most commonly used row pattern under furrow irrigation and on finer textured soil. In sprinkler irrigated areas, planting flat with a grain drill in row widths of 10, 12 and 16 inches is the most common pattern."

In the Valley, 10-inch row spacings have looked good under dryland, noted Metzger. Under irrigation, 28 to 30-inch rows as well as two and three rows on a 40-inch bed have yielded well.

"As far as seeding rates are concerned, four to five seeds per foot of row regardless of row spacing have given the best results on the High Plains," said the agronomist. "This is about 35-40 pounds of seed per acre with two rows on a 40-inch bed. As dwarf varieties become available, higher planting rates and higher plant populations may be required to achieve maximum yield in a minimal growing season. Seed for dwarf varieties should be available to producers in 1974."

Milam County Farm Bureau was represented by two leaders at the area Farm Bureau Legislative Conference March 2 in Temple, according to Edwin Lehmann, local county president.

Attending from this county were: John A. Smith, District 8 Director; Edwin Lehmann, president; and Mrs. Edwin Lehmann, Woman's Committee Chairman.

An important part of the conference, Lehmann said, was a discussion of techniques and procedures for building legislative effectiveness. This involves the formation of legislative

A number of national and state legislative issues were discussed at the meeting, the county Farm Bureau president said. National issues outlined included national farm program, payment limitations, strategic reserves, agricultural chemicals, minimum wage, farm labor relations, transportation strikes, hauling agricultural commodities, and government spending and inflation.

Grain sorghum gets up to 2 weeks longer protection against aphids with *DI-SYSTON 15% Granular at planting than with other systemic insecticides. And a planting time application is low-cost protection compared with the labor and cost of a later application. And because it works inside the plant, DI-SYSTON will not destroy beneficial insect populations when used as directed. This year, plant DI-SYSTON 15% Granular for control of greenbugs and other aphids. You'll see the difference...

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q - My mother - in - law lived with us nine months last year. Can I claim her as a dependent?
A - Some of the most common taxpayer errors are caused by not understanding when exemptions can be claimed on Federal income tax returns.
Generally, to claim an exemption for a dependent, (1), the taxpayer must furnish over half of his dependent's total support, (2) the dependent must not have a gross income of $675 or more, (3) he must be a close relation or member of the household, (4) he has to be a citizen or resident of the United States or a resident of Canada, Mexico, Panama, or the Canal Zone, and (5) he may not file a joint return.

All requirements must be met before a dependent qualifies as an exemption. And it pays to keep good records on amounts spent for the dependent's support.
More details on personal exemptions and dependents are contained in Publication No. 501, "Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents," which is available free from any IRS office.

Q - Some friends and I are planning to form an investment club. Does the IRS have a publication on the tax duties and responsibilities of such a club and its members?
A - Yes. Call or write your local IRS office and ask for a free copy of Publication 550, "Tax Information on Investment Income and Expenses."
Q - I should have filed an estimated income tax return last year, but I didn't.

Will I have to pay an estimated tax penalty this year after my Form 1040 is processed?
A - The six percent penalty for underpayment of 1971 estimated income tax does not apply in the case of single persons with gross incomes of not more than $10,000 or married persons filing jointly, heads of households and surviving spouses with incomes of not more than $20,000 provided the taxpayer did not have more than $200 ($400 in the case of married taxpayers filing jointly) in income other than wages. In addition, the waiver applies only for tax year 1971.

For more information on estimated tax, see Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax." It's available free from your local IRS office.
Q - My son purchased a car last year. Does the amount he paid count toward his support when I figure out whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?
A - No. The purchase of an automobile, whether by you or your dependent, is not considered when determining total support.
Q - If I let the IRS compute my tax, will it delay any refund I may have coming?

A - No. The IRS can compute the tax and issue a refund within 4-6 weeks from the date the return is filed with the Service Center. So, actually, your refund will not be delayed by having IRS compute the tax since the computations are checked on all returns received.
Q - Do you have to use sales tax tables in your tax forms instructions to compute your sales tax deduction?
A - No. If you kept records, you can deduct the actual amounts you paid in sales tax for 1971. However, if you use the sales tax tables to determine your deduction, you may add to the amount shown sales tax paid on the purchase of automobiles, airplanes, boats, mobile homes and materials to build your own home.

Co-Ed Home And Family Living Course Helps Yoe High Students Set Life Style

A $100 - a week salary sounds like high living to most high school students. But members of the Yoe High School "Home and Family Living" classes who used this sum to plan a family budget found to their surprise that it leaves little for frills after the bills are paid.

The budget is just one of the "real life" eye-openers that has made the co-educational homemaking course one of the most popular in the local school. Three years ago, when Home and Family Living was first offered as a semester course, 18 girls enrolled. This year the program has grown to an enrollment of 34 girls and 35 boys in four classes taught by Mrs. Bob Foster and Mrs. I. N. Hughes.

Mrs. Foster, who pioneered the co-ed study, said she considered her students the "cream of the crop." "The boys and girls in these classes are striving to clarify their values and are seeking ways to relate to others."

"More people lose their jobs because they don't relate well to other people than because they can't do their work," Mrs. Foster said. "We stress getting along with others, and you don't get along well with others if you don't first understand and like yourself." She said love of life and respect for each person as an individual are priorities emphasized.

Students learn to work together through actual experiences. In conjunction with the $100 a week budget, the classes planned a meal, shopped for the food and prepared it. They have also drawn plans for their "dream house" and learned that a swimming pool in the back yard doesn't fit into the average family budget.

Both instructors said one of their main goals was to get across an appreciation of family life - the knowledge that marriage means commitment to one person and that love for your children is strong enough to withstand anything they may do.

"The family is both fragile and tough," Mrs. Foster explains. "It always seems to be on the verge of breaking down, yet seems to endure. Young people of today, while questioning the nature and traditions of the family, have not yet developed their own life styles."

"Examining the family, its failures and successes, and the possibilities for changes, will hopefully help them to find the lifestyle that will meet their needs - equality of partnership of love and honesty between men and women; the sacredness of human life; the right to individuality; and the establishment of social institutions that meet human needs."

The real test of the programs success has come from former students.

Jimmy Baily said it was a good course for people who take life seriously. "It has helped us to understand other people and what to look for in other people in our future lives." He added, "It has given us facts so that we can use better judgment."

Linda Perkins agrees: "It has helped me in school and at home. It helps you to cope with the world and yourself."

FAMILY LIVING students work together on house plans, budgets and other "real life" experiences. The co-educational classes stress an appreciation of family life and personal relationships. Shown in a typical

The following are books recently added to the shelves of the Cameron Public Library:

THE SOUND OF SUMMER VOICES by Helen Tucker - In the tradition of "To Kill a Mockingbird" here is a southern novel about 12-year old Patrick Tolson that will charm millions.

THE CASE AGAINST HAVING CHILDREN by Anna and Arnold Silverman - This book explodes the myth of the maternal instinct, dis-

NO LANGUAGE BUT A CRY by Bert Kruger Smith - In a warm, sympathetic way, Miss Smith, mental health education specialist, speaks for the emotionally ill children who cannot speak for themselves.

THE GIFTS THEY BRING by Pearl S. Buck and Gwendeth T. Zarfoss - This is the story of the special children - the ones whose minds have failed to develop. But it is especially the story of some of the benefits they bring us, both tangible and intangible.

TSTA To Convene Annual Meeting

SAN ANTONIO
Upwards of 10,000 members of the Texas State Teachers Association will hold their 93rd annual convention March 16-18 in the San Antonio Convention Center.

TSTA, with a record 147,330 members, is the largest professional association in Texas. Its membership includes teachers, principals, superintendents, supervisors, school nurses, secretaries, and other school personnel.

Supt. Archie A. Roberts of Beeville, the state TSTA president, has set the association's theme for 1971-72 and for the San Antonio convention. That theme is "Professionalism: Commitment."

"Teachers cannot have professionalism without commitment," Roberts says. "First we must have a personal commitment to the boys and girls; second, to the public trust that is ours; and third, to the teaching profession itself."

Featured speakers at the convention will be Max Lerner, professor at Brandeis University and syndicated newspaper columnist; and Glenn Olds, president of Kent State University and former United Nations delegate.

The 36 education-related state organizations affiliated with TSTA will hold their own special meetings during the convention. There will be two business sessions.

Ranly Wins $500 Bond For Safety

Ron Ranly, a machinist apprentice at Alcoa's Rockdale Works, is the winner of the first $500 U. S. Savings Bond to be given away in the plant's new safety program tabbed "I'll Do My Part In '72."

Ranly, an eight-year Alcoa employee, won the bond after Rockdale Works reached the program's first recognition level of 500,000 man-hours minus a lost-time accident.

To be eligible for the drawing, employees had to sign personal pledges to avoid disabling injuries in 1972 and to put safety first on the job every day. Recognition levels are the achievement of every half-million man-hours.

Purpose of the program is to stimulate safety interest and promote dedication and participation of every Alcoa employee to avoid injuries, according to the sponsoring Union-Management Safety Health Committee.

Fred Bergeron, works manager, and Paul Buenger, president of United Steelworkers of America Local 4895, were the first to sign pledges.

of the 1,330-member House of Delegates, composed of voting delegates from the 459 TSTA local associations spread throughout Texas.

Poage Describes Activities Of House Committees

WACO

Central Texas Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage, speaking to the Beverly Hills Lions Club, described the legislative machinery in Washington and emphasized the importance of Committee activities.

"One thing which often is so little understood," said the Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, "is the fact that probably the bulk of the real work of both the House and the Senate is done in Committees, rather than on the Floor of either body."

"The Committee system is far better developed in the United States Congress than in any legislative body in the world -- either in our state legislatures or in the parliaments of other nations."

He said the speeches and actions in the House and Senate Chambers could be likened to the examinations and recitations at the end of a school year -- both represent the end product of study and discussions which have gone on earlier in Committees, and classes and libraries.

The lawmaker then observed that a Congressman's duties also include service to individual citizens as their contact or advocate before the numerous huge and impersonal bureaus which administer federal laws and regulations.

"If the Congressman is to be helpful," he continued "he must have some judgment and must exercise it. Even then he will fail far more times than he will succeed because many of the cases which come to him will be those which have already been considered and rejected. But there are always a percentage of these cases where the Administrative agency has been mistaken. We can only present the facts and see that they are considered."

In a reference to the seniority system in Congress, Poage said that with all its faults, it still is the best that has been devised to prevent pressure groups from taking control without regard to the experience and knowledge of the individual members of a committee.

The Congressman noted that with the continuing growth of population in the United States, the average representative now has a constituency of 467,000 people. He pointed out that Texas next year will have a 24-member delegation in the House of Representatives, an increase of one because of its population gain in the 1970 Census. California next year will have 43 representatives. Five states will have only one representative each. The House membership remains fixed at 435, the Senate at two from each state.

UNDERWAY

There she goes . . . UNDERWAY at last! You can almost feel her confidence when she hits the water. But who knows what adventures await her on the Seven Seas? How many crucial tests must the captain face before she finally rests at a harbor of safety?

We're the captains of our own ships in the voyage through life. We begin with determined optimism. We have youth, ambition, determination. We have health and strength. But as we get "underway," we soon find ourselves faced with sudden trials and obstacles. It is in these moments of crisis that our faith and courage are challenged.

Just as the ship has its modern equipment and its lighthouses, so we too have a tower of direction and strength found in the Church. In the Church of Jesus Christ we find a lasting faith, guiding us into the calm harbor of ETERNAL life.
